

HOLLADAY HALL in November 1902.
Photo courtesy of University Archives.

HOLLADAY HALL in September 2008.
Photo by Ed Funkhouser.

holladay hall

OLD MAIN—THE VERY FIRST BRICK BUILDING

Main Building opened its doors on Oct. 3, 1889 to usher in the first class. At the time, everything was located in — as students called it — Old Main, including administrative offices, dorms, classrooms and a small library. In 1915, the building of Romanesque revival design was named Holladay Hall in honor of Alexander Quarles Holladay, the school's first president. The rear side of Holladay Hall features an ornamental Block "S" built into the eaves.

Holladay Hall was designated a historic site by the Raleigh City Council June 16, 1969. Today, the building houses the offices of the chancellor and central administration.

Place a Holladay Hall memory here.

