FIRST YEARS GET PREVIEW OF CAMPUS AT ORIENTATION

During the two-day program, future students have the opportunity to learn about their academic curriculum. Incoming first years will also have the chance to explore avenues for student life and ways to get involved when they return in the fall. They can also make their first college friends and sign up for their first semester's classes. Students get to test drive residence hall life and participate in activities that allow them to get to know campus better.

At the Information Fair, students and their parents are able to talk with representatives from campus departments and student organizations.
