

FELICIA BROUSSARD leaves her painted hand print on the FREE EXPRESSION TUNNEL to support the RESPECT THE PACK event. Photo by Emily White.

supporting free expression

WITH RESPECT FOR DIVERSITY, WE ARE A CAMPUS OF MANY BUT A PACK OF ONE

NC State is a diverse community of scholars. At the Respect the Pack event, students, faculty and staff gather to support the values of equality and mutual respect for all people in our diverse community. Respect the Pack became a Wolfpack Welcome Week event in 2011. Campus organizations and departments partner with Student Government to create this event at the Free Expression Tunnel. Students come to the event and get their hand painted so they can affirm their commitment to the statement of mutual respect painted on the Free Expression Tunnel.

The statement reads: “We, the Wolfpack, support the values of equality and mutual respect for all people in our diverse community. Respect the Pack.” Other activities throughout the event include airbrush tattoos, display tables, music and food.

Leave a painted fingerprint here.